Remembering Tariq

“If Swarthmore was a beautiful woman, I would marry her”.

Tariq put this quote on his Swarthmore application, because he knew that Swarthmore was where he wanted to be. He showed how much enthusiasm, joy, and love he had in every moment he spent here. Everyone who met him, even for only a few moments, was touched by his contagious zest for everything in life. Tariq very much knew how to enjoy Swat: get your work done, but don't get too hung up about it. Too often Swatties are so obsessed with the work they have to do that they don't take a few moments a day to just sit back, enjoy the beautiful environment we have, and be thankful to be in such a wonderful place with such great people around us. Many of the greatest moments I shared with Tariq were when we really were not doing anything particularly special. We would spend an afternoon just sitting in the sun in the amphitheater, chatting with friends and enjoying the sights, sounds and smells of the surrounding area. Tariq had the amazing ability to find enjoyment in everything he did, even if (or perhaps especially if) what he was doing was nothing at all. Many times, I would be stressing about having to do work or having to run some errand, and Tariq would see this right away, and force me to take a step back and relax. We would lie on Parrish beach, or bake (actually more like 'watch our friends bake, then eat') key lime pie or watch Family Guy. Tariq helped everyone around him to relax, enjoy life and have some fun, time after time. He was also the best friend anyone could ask to have. When we think about Tariq, I believe it is important to remember what he stood for. Every time we stress about having a lot of work, we need to take a breath, and even if there isn't time at this very moment (which surprisingly enough, is rarely true), find the time in the next day to enjoy life. Find a group of friends, sit in the amphitheater, talk about anything you want, and remember that even though you're here to do work, that's not all there is about Swarthmore.

Remember Tariq, and enjoy everything you do, because that is what is truly important.

Mertz is known for its many suitors - lucky freshman, keen-blocking sophomores, high-picking juniors and a few good mice. Yet 2005-2006 was a turbulent year of ups and down for the student body's love affair with ole' Mertz. Alice Paul stood erect, a bright and shiny rival to the humble Mertz, yet with students sleepwalking right out of the third floor windows, Mertz's stature is always preferred. Indeed, new dorms come and go, but after 25 years, the flame of Mertz Love burns bright.

Dana girls are always on top, but 2005-2006 was a wild ride for all Dana residents. Outings to baseball games, killer snow ball fights in the wee-hours of the morning and trailer-trashing madness are but some of the memories shared by this half of Danawell.
 Party-on, Dana.

This year we found that Hallowell does not, in fact, have "riot-proof" hallways. Clearly, because this year proved to test the very cinderblock walls of the 'well. "Wet Wednesdays" were a 3rd floor feature, while the basement kitchen spawned many-a-batches of brownies and other special goodies. Party-on, Hallowell.

OLDE CLUB

re-inventing performance

Olde Club is a venue where the signifier does not always equal the signified. The fine line between pleasure and pain, performer and audience, rock-star and Swattie were all confused and conflated in 2005-2006. Students took the stage during open-mics and tribute concerts, and some may never forget the role-reversal during the Les Savy Fav show. Olde Club was experienced as Czechoslovakia in the production of Albert Camus's Misunderstanding, and as a posh club featuring Swarthmore's finest DJs complete with a dizzying array of strobe lights. Olde Club provides an opportunity for the post-structural exploration of transitive identities.

THE VILLE

What do Swarthmore students do when they need a haircut?

When they need organic groceries or Finnish gifts?

Or maybe fine chocolates or flowers

for Valentine's Day?

They head to the Ville!

"The Ville" is the common name for Swarthmore's business district, and it's the quintessential charming small-town center!

Importantly, it's also home to the Lang Center, which is the headquarters for many of Swarthmore community action groups.

One's tenure as a PPR resident is typically characterized by walking.

Snuggled between campus and the Ville, PPR offers students the best of both worlds. Exclusively for upper classmen, it's a cozy life, without the curfew. So if you got screwed in the lottery or side-tracked on your way to ML's Halloween bash, chances are you'll spend some quality time out in the 'burbs.

Mary Lyon Halloween Party 2005:
Escape from ML-Catraz

A collage of black and white photographs from the Mary Lyon Halloween Party 2005. The photos show various people in costumes, including a person in a 'GIANT' costume, a person in a 'SpongeBob' costume, and a person in a 'Catraz' costume. The photos are arranged in a collage format, with some overlapping and some tilted.

"So whenever you envision a promising direction for your discipline or profession; or spot an imaginative strategy for-profit or non-profit organization; when the opportunity arises to take responsibility for a group, institution or society; step forward mindful of the quality and power of the leadership you can deliver." - Al Bloom

"Some of the time we are instrumentally motivated, that is we act in order to achieve some further goal. and some of the time we are intrinsically motivated: we act because what we are doing is pleasurable or meaningful in itself. what i wish for you is an opportunity to merge the two." - Bob Gross

"After all, what is life but a breath of smoke, out of the mouth of the powers that be, and into the wind. And you have all carried me. Congratulation, hug your family, make good choices, word is bond." - Toby David '06, Senior Class Speaker

Favorite Undergrad Memory:
Second favorite Undergrad Memory:
Best memory as Dean:
Worst Memory as Dean:

"I can't say that... or that..."
Crum Parties: singing songs and drinking beer around a bonfire
Seeing students, who didn't think they would graduate, graduate
The students that have passed away:
horrible for the families, sad for the community
while putting everything into perspective

Would like to be remembered for:
My Legacy:
Hopes for Swat's Future:

Taking of a little bit of the edge off Swarthmore's intensity Exists in students and colleagues I have interacted with,
"I heard they're giving me a bench."
I hope Swat stays committed to excellence,
but doesn't take itself too seriously,
stays a committed community while inevitably growing,
and get a working fireplace in the dean's office

Congratulations, Eric!!!!

We are very proud of The Boy.

Love,

Mom, Dad and Beth

Cara Christina Tighe

Cara,

We are so very proud of the young woman you have become. Your years at Swarthmore have given you the perspective you need to follow your dreams no matter where they may take you. Enjoy the journey, continue to believe in yourself, and make a difference in the world. Always remember how much we love you. Congratulations on your graduation!

“...one of the paradoxes of education was that precisely at the point when you begin to develop a conscience, you must find yourself at war with your society. It is your responsibility to change society if you think of yourself as an educated person.”
James Baldwin.

For Jessica

Seems like just yesterday, we unloaded the car and carried those first boxes up the stairs of Parrish.
We missed you during those summers away from home,
while you were busy on the job
Now it's practically time for you to graduate-- these past four years have just flown by!

Congratulations for all of your successes!
You worked very hard for each one,
and you have always made us so proud!

Love,
Mom and Dad

Children vs. Kites

You spend a lifetime trying to get them off the ground
You run with them until you're both breathless.
They crash...they hit the rooftop.
You patch and comfort, and adjust, and they'll fly.
Finally they are airborne.
They need more string, and you keep letting it out.
But with each twist of the ball of twine, there is sadness that goes with joy.
The kite becomes more distant, and you know that it won't be long Before the beautiful creature will snap the lifeline that binds you together,
And will soar as it's meant to soar, free and alone.
Only then will you know that you have done your job.

Dad, I know I wasn't an easy child to live with.

A collage of 12 black and white photographs showing students in various settings. The photos are arranged in a grid-like fashion, with some overlapping. The images depict students in classrooms, hallways, and outdoors. Some students are sitting at desks, some are standing, and some are in motion. The photos capture candid moments of student life.
